Our specification at a glance outlines the key features of our new specifications, enabling you to see at a glance what has changed.

Summary of changes

We have outlined the differences between our new and existing specifications, enabling you to see the key differences. It also signposts some helpful online resources which support some of the new topics.

Schemes of work

These are flexible and easy to use and will support you in planning effective lessons.

AQA approved textbooks and digital resources

New textbooks and digital resources have been produced with established publishers for the new specifications, adding depth, quality and choice to enhance your students' learning.

Guidance on co-teaching AS and A-level

As our new specifications enable you to teach AS and year one A-level students in the same class, making it easier for timetabling and resourcing, we have created guidance on how to approach teaching both specifications.

Command words

Our list of command words enable you to prepare your students for their exams and ensure that they are confident in what is being asked.

Preparing for exams

Specimen questions and mark schemes

Specimen papers show you what the exams will be like. These can also be used with your students to assess their progress and help them understand the type and style of questions they will be expected to answer.

Examiners' reports

Each year we produce a report for each paper offering insights into good practice, what worked well and what did not.

Example answers and commentaries

We also have example student answers with senior examiner commentaries, which are available online for you to view.

Analyse your students' results with Enhanced Results Analysis (ERA)

Find out which questions were the most challenging, how the results compare to the previous year's and where your students need to improve. ERA, our free online results analysis tool, will help you see where to focus your teaching.
