SOURCE A

One of a series of posters produced by the National Health Service in 2017.

They were part of a five year campaign to change people's behaviour and improve the nation's health.

The image, on the opposite page, shows a silhouette of a pregnant woman smoking a cigarette. Smoke is coming from the woman's stomach. There is an NHS logo at the top of the page. There is text on the silhouette that says, 'EVERY CIGARETTE HARMS YOUR BABY INSTANTLY. Cigarettes restrict the oxygen supply to your baby. So their tiny heart has to beat harder for 15 minutes every time you smoke. With the free Smokefree Pregnancy Support DVD we can help you quit.'
