10	Ozzy owned a timber yard. He used large, powerful saws to cut wood for customers' orders. The buzz from the saws was often very persistent, and it sometimes meant that Sam, the owner of a neighbouring house, had to close his windows. Ozzy received a contract from the local council for wood for a new school. To meet the order, Ozzy began working in his yard in the evenings. When Sam complained about this, Ozzy responded by working on Sunday afternoons as well. The timber yard produced a large amount of sawdust, which Ozzy stored in sacks on one side of the yard. One night, the sacks were swept away by a very bad storm. The sacks split, and the wind blew the sawdust into the central heating vent on the outside of
	Paula's house. Paula had to spend a lot of money employing a builder to unblock the vent so that her central heating would work properly again.
	Consider the rights and remedies of Sam against Ozzy in relation to the operation of the timber yard and of Paula against Ozzy in relation to the damage to her central heating vent.

In Question 11 you are required to provide an extended answer which shows a clear, logical and sustained line of reasoning leading to a valid conclusion.

Leroy owned an antique table. He asked Movers, a local firm of auctioneers, to value the table. Movers sent Nickie to visit Leroy. Nickie worked part-time for Movers, and they often asked her to visit customers who needed advice on antique furniture. A paragraph in Nickie's contract with Movers stated that she should only advise customers on furniture.

While Nickie was at Leroy's house, Leroy asked her to value a diamond necklace. Nickie stated that the necklace was a fake and had no value. Leroy gave the necklace to a local charity shop. Leroy later discovered that the necklace was genuine and that its value was £50 000.

Consider the rights and remedies of Leroy against Nickie and of Leroy against Movers in relation to his loss.

In relation to the disagreement between Leroy and Movers, assess the different methods of dispute resolution available, both in and out of court.
